International design competition honors projects encouraging thought leadership in design

Design Awards Theme: "Where Innovation Meets Social Responsibility"

Portola Hotel & Spa in Monterey, CA was honored at the second annual San Francisco Design Week Awards, hosted by the non-profit organization on June 20th at Pier 27, San Francisco. Portola Hotel & Spa received the top award for Interior Design: Restaurant/Hospitality which recognized RoseBernard Studio and the whole project team for its ground-breaking design and commitment to thought leadership in meeting the needs of a positive future for society.

Portola Hotel & Spa was recognized for their renovation of the lobby and coastal eatery, Jacks Monterey.

"We are extremely excited San Francisco Design Week Awards is returning this year," says SFDW Director Dawn Zidonis. "As with last year, the quality of the many entries exceeded our expectations of our theme, 'Innovation Meets Social Responsibility.' Congratulations to this year's outstanding and diverse winners."

San Francisco Design Week (SFDW), the premier gathering of the world's most active design community, debuted the first annual San Francisco Design Week Awards at Pier 27 San Francisco in 2018. The theme, "Where Innovation Meets Social Responsibility" was met by award winners from leading design firms, in-house teams, and creative individuals, who were honoured during a press preview at the SFDW Opening Night Reception at Pier 27, San Francisco.

SFDW Design Awards is an international design competition seeking to encourage thought leadership by supporting designers whose works can contribute towards a positive future for society.
